

Ex. 5, p. 13 from Неличные формы глагола

1. The obtained results are known to have been discussed on the seminar.
2. The symposium is expected to be devoted to superconductivity issues.
3. He appears to have finished his research 2 years ago.
4. Many important questions are likely to be discussed at the conference.
5. They appear not to be satisfied with the results of the experiment.
6. This work is unlikely to give good results.
7. The new approach to the issue is sure to be quite promising.
8. This article is unlikely to be translated in time.
9. This theory has recently been shown to contradict experimental data.